High Cost of Staples Not Due to Actual Demand.

----TRADE CONDITIONS ARE FAIR

Business conditions would be most satisfactory if present high prices for the leading staples were the result of wholesale demand, but the prominence of manipulation prevents any such wholesale demand, but the prominence of manipulation prevents any such lines temporarily stimulated by severe weather, trade is quiet, and evidences of increased activity with the approach of spring are hopefully awaited. Reports of the building outlook have been prepared by branch offices of R. G. Dun & Co., at the leading cities, and indicate that high cost of materials and labor have curtailed operations, although the year 1903 showed a good gain over 1902. Demand for lumber is gradually improving, stocks in the yards are light as a result, and attractive prices promise a large cut. Weather conditions are favorable for winter wheat. Transportation has suffered some interruption by storms, but raitway are 3.8 per.

That this valley is rapidly becoming recognized as the smelting and ore selling center of the entire west, new evidence materializes with ever-increasing frequency. It was only a short time ago that the Ladd Metals company, which is operating a matting smelter in the control of the co which is operating a matting smelter in Idaho on Seven Devils ore, found it profitable to come here with its product, rather than send it to the coast. Two Gold Mountain Companies Taking Steps to Consolidate.

The shareholders of the Blue Eagle Mining company are called to meet in special session on Feb. 14 for the purpose of passing on a proposition to con-solidate with the B. W. & H. Gold & Silver Mining company, and there is ev-ery reason to believe that favorable action will be taken.

The properties of these companies adtoln each other and are located about seven miles directly east of Kimberley in the Gold Mountain district, and in the Gold Modultain district, and conthin a much less distance of the rail-road. Ore from the B. W. & H. company's ground has found its way to this market at different times, and it is understood that if the two properties e combined a brief season of ener-tic and systematic development will
